OCEAN FREIGHT RATES JUMP 1,100 PER CENT

Senator Fletcher Says Secretary McAdoo's Facts Will Win for Pending Ship Purchase Bill.

"If any arguments further than those already submitted were required to impress upon the country the imperative need of the enactment of the ship purchase bill, they will appear in convincing force in a report that will be sent to Congress by the Secretary of the Treasury, I believe tomorrow," said Senator Fletcher, in charge of the bill now under consideration in the Senate last night.

"I have received letters and telegrams similar to those submitted by Secretary McAdoo with his report showing the urgent need of more ships," continued Senator Fletcher.

"The Treasury Department has made an investigation of the shipping situation, with a result that will show not only a lack of shipping facilities, but an increase in ocean freight rates amounting to extortion and, in many cases, reaching an absolutely prohibitive figure.

"I believe the facts will show that in few cases has the increase in ocean freight rates been less than 100 per cent and in some it has reached the almost incredible figure of 1,100 per cent. Because of the lack of shipping facilities and these extortionate rates it has been impossible to supply the demand for cotton, grain, flour, tobacco, and other great staple products. This condition has been most detrimental to the prosperity of the agricultural sections of the country.

"Our manufacturers have suffered in the same way and reports that have reached me show that some of them have been compelled to close down."

Army of Englishwomen in the Making

Members of the women's volunteer reserve on their first route march through London. The object of the corps is to train a body of women skilled in first aid work, cooking, signalling, riding, driving, management of horses in general, and marksmanship. When the corps is fully trained it will be offered for service to the war office.

The Town Crier

Mrs. Hannah Taylor, of 2018 O street northwest, yesterday reported the loss of an ermine fur neckpiece, valued at $30.

Ten dollars damage was done to St. Agnes' School, 3017 O street northwest, yesterday by a fire caused by an overheated kitchen stove.

A vacant house at 1221 Fifth street northwest was entered during the past week by thieves who stole lead pipe and gas fixtures.

Richard G. Taylor, 3005 Tenth street northwest, reported to the police that property worth $25 was stolen from his launch, lying in the Eastern branch near the Anacostia bridge.

A street car at Eleventh and Kenyon streets collided yesterday with the automobile of John A. Lewis, 520 Greenham place northwest, operated by Miss Irene Lewis, of the same address. The auto was damaged to the extent of $50.

Charles Hall and Arthur Barr were rescued from their houseboat by the police boat yesterday after it was blown against the seawall at Gleason point. The boat was then towed to James Creek Canal.

The police have been asked to look for a man who attempted to steal the overcoat of L. C. Getsinger, 1214 Twelfth street northwest, from Calvary Baptist Church yesterday morning.

The Washington Woman Suffrage Council will meet tomorrow night in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce, Twelfth and P streets northwest. All members are urged to be present.

Beta Theta Pi fraternity members of Washington will gather at the University Club on Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock for a "beefsteak dinner" at which Commander R. H. Jackson, U. S. N., will speak. Officers for the coming year will be elected.

A musical for the blind will be given at the Library of Congress this evening at 8:15 in Pavilion 7. The program will be rendered by the following artists: Miss Ruth Bronson, violinist; Miss Marion E. Hallinger, pianist; Mr. E. Taylor Channing, tenor; Miss Grace Adams, pianist.

Walter Caddick, twenty-five years old, of 155 H street northwest, while riding a motorcycle at Eighth and E streets northeast yesterday, ran into a tree to avoid collision with a street car. He was cut about the face and taken to Casualty Hospital.

Mrs. B. Middledorf, 520 L street northeast, reported to the police that $27 in bills was stolen from her store. Spontaneous combustion caused a fire that did $100 damage to the building occupied by the C. F. Collins drug store, 1201 New Jersey avenue, early yesterday. Damage to the stock has not been determined.

Two negroes held up George Garoufles, who conducts a fruit store at 248 First street northwest, at the point of a pistol yesterday, and stole a quantity of cigars from the store. Their ignorance of the intricacies of a cash register prevented their getting any money and, fearing interference, they fled.

Henry Turner, who conducts a store at 1502 Seventh street northwest, reported to the police that last night while he was in a back room of the store a colored man broke open the cash register and stole $2.

The palmyra palm is one of sixteen varieties growing in Ceylon, from which sugar may be extracted. It is rare about Colombo and in the uncultivated, but is the principal palm grown in the northern part of the island, especially in the neighborhood of Jaffna.

CATCH INTRUDER WITHOUT GUN.

Beall Awakens, Grabs Man, Calls Son—Gilliam Arrested.

Beall Beall was asleep on a lounge at his home, 519 Virginia avenue southeast, early yesterday morning. He was awakened when a light was made in the room. Beall saw a man with a soft hat pulled over his eyes going through his clothes.

Beall attacked the intruder, who was unarmed. The two struggled for several minutes, when Beall's son reached the room. Beall was victorious, and held the burglar while his son went for a policeman.

John P. Gilliam, twenty-five years old, said to be an old offender, was arrested and charged with housebreaking.

WILL SHOW HERALD WAR FILMS TODAY

Actual Scenes of Fighting in Europe Will Be Exhibited at the Colonial Theater.

At the Colonial Theater this afternoon will be shown for the first time in Washington—with the exception of a view given newspapermen at the Press Club—new motion pictures taken in the European war zone. They are fruits of dangerous labor by trained photographers, and show important scenes and incidents in the great struggle. The pictures do not show any bias for either one side or the other; they simply are a reflex of actual conditions.

Scenes in Belgium, northern France, and east Prussia are shown, besides several sea scenes, the bombardment of Blype by a British warship being one of the most striking. The pictures were taken by an officer on a sister ship, and sent to England, where they were procured by one of the photographers. The ill-fated Cressy, Aboukir, and Hogue, sunk by the German submarine U-9 are also shown. An armored train is shown in action, the first of this particular type of fighter ever thrown on a screen. The big German siege guns are shown, the shell from which are called "cellar diggers" by the allies.

The celebrated "caterpillar wheel" constructed after the style of a steamer's paddle wheel, which makes the handling of great guns on ordinary roads possible, is seen paddling its way along the roads of Belgium. Real battles are recorded on the films, the contestants on both sides being plainly seen. Bridges blown up by retreating Belgians in hope of staying the German advance make startling subjects for the camera. The working of field guns is intimately shown, also the results of shell fire by both armies. No trained moving picture actors were employed, but natural actors, living the events of the last four months.

Air craft figure in the pictures, also the aero guns used in fighting them. The great battle of Chateauvaut was caught from different angles, the movements of the masses of troops that participated being shown. One picture that is decidedly unique is the surrender of a German company. This is undoubtedly the only picture of such an episode yet secured in this war. The educational advantages of these pictures cannot be overestimated, as they show real history in its making.

A competent lecturer has been secured in the person of John P. Wilson, formerly of the New York Hippodrome. The Washington Herald's War Pictures will be shown every afternoon and evening this week. The usual Colonial prices will prevail.

OBITUARY.

Joshua Davis, seventy-three years old, well-known Confederate veteran, died at his home, 1424 W street northwest, on Saturday night of locomotor ataxia. He was a native of Montgomery County, Md., and served as a sergeant during the war, participating in many battles. For a number of years he was financial secretary of the Confederate Veterans' Association of this city. Funeral services will be held at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at Lee's undertaking establishment. Interment will be at Arlington.

Mrs. Margaret Spillman, sixty-two years old, was found dead on a sofa in a living room at her home, 300 McLean avenue southwest, yesterday afternoon. She died of indigestion.

TODAY AND ALL THIS WEEK THE HERALD'S NEW MOVING PICTURES OF THE WAR

For the first time in the history of the human race peaceful noncombatants may sit in a comfortable chair and witness all the details of civilization in convulsion and history in the making. Daring photographers faced shot and shell, hunger, cold, disease, execution—all the innumerable horrors and inconveniences of war—to secure these moving pictures on the actual firing line. The whole story of the war is given in a sequence of events which makes the entertainment a liberal education and a full news report of what is happening to our brothers across the water.

ENGLISH SOLDIERS IN TRENCHES

See the Zeppelins over the outskirts of Paris—the artillery battle outside Louvain—the German army entering Brussels—the field gun in action in the south of Antwerp—engineers blowing up a bridge, actually blocking the German advance at Lys—the swift, mad dash of dog-drawn mitrailleuses into a battle—the armored motorcar speeding with messages of death to Sandomir—the wicked belching of long-range field guns in action—the heroic pedalling of Catholic priests on bicycles to succor the wounded on the field of action—motor buses of all nations passing through Ypres on the way to Roulers—the bombardment of Ghent—and a thousand other details of life and death.
